THE LONELINESS OF DEATH.

The silent chariot standeth at the door;
The house is hushed and still from roof to floor.
None heard the sound of its mysterious wheels,
Yet each its presence feels.

No champing bit, no tramp of pawing steed:
All dark and silent up and down the street.
And yet thou mayst not keep it waiting there
For one last kiss or prayer.

Thy words, with some strange other interchanged,
Strike cold across us like loved eyes estranged
With things that are not fraught, or things that are
Fade like a sun struck star.

And thou, too weak and agonized to lift
The cup to quench thy dying thirst or shift
Thy pillows, now without our help must rise
Nor wait our ministries.

Thou, loved and cherished, must go forth alone.
None see thee fondly to the door, not one.
No head is turned to see thee go; we stay
Where thou art not and pray.

No panel bars thy white, resistless feet;
Our walls are mist to thee; out on the street
It waits, it waits for thee, for thee alone.
Arise, let us begone!

Alone, alone upon thine awful way!
Do any show thee kindness, any stay
Thy heart, or does the silent charioteer
Whisper, "Be of good cheer?"

We know not; none may follow thee afar.
None hear the sound of thy departing car.
Only vast silence, like a strong black sea,
Rolls on 'twixt me and thee.

—Blaise Pascal.

Frans Hals' Visitor.

A story is told of a visit paid to Frans Hals, the famous old Dutch painter, by Vandyke. The latter was then 22, Hals 15 years his senior. As a pleasantry Vandyke suppressed his name, announcing himself as a wealthy stranger who wished to sit for his portrait, but who had only a couple of hours to spare. Hals fell to with his usual impetuosity and completed a portrait for the sitter's inspection in even less than the limited time, much to the satisfaction of the latter, who expressed an astonishment not altogether feigned at the speed of its execution.

"Surely," said he, "painting is an easier thing than I thought. Suppose we change places and see what I can do." The exchange was made. Hals instantly detected that the person before him was no stranger to the brush. He speculated in vain as to who he might be. But when the second portrait was finished in still less time than the first the mystery was solved. Rushing to his guest, he clasped him in a fraternal embrace. "The man who can do that," he cried, "must be either Vandyke or the devil."—Popular Magazine.

Freemasonry of Trade.

The Freemasonry of trade appears to be extending all round this jolly earth. The time may come when it will be possible to have one's apparel, purchased in New York, put in order free wherever one may happen to be. Here is a hatter who announces that his silk hats can be ironed free of charge in 67 cities located in 27 American states and territories and three foreign countries. There does not appear to be any good reason why a man should not have a button sewed on his New York shoe in Kalamazoo or Timbuctoo, and it is by no means improbable that he may one day have his metropolitan coat pressed free of charge in Yokohama or in Melbourne, to say nothing of Constantinople and Canandaigua.—New York Sun.

Dean Stanley's Father.

Bishop Stanley, the dean's father, was disappointed in his wish to be a sailor, for which he was admirably fitted. He ruled Alderley exactly as a captain rules his ship. He gave premiums or prizes for cleanliness and punished parishioners by good naturedly declining to enter a house if it was not tidy, and turned away, saying he would "come back when it was clean." He even got the keepers of the inns to put up placards in their parlors and bars in commendation of temperance.

A Change In Self.

A young girl who was dissatisfied with her home life and always talking of her grievances and showing her discontent in voice, look and manner surprised a friend whom she met one day by her quick step and bright smile and happy voice. "How are things at home?" the friend asked, thinking that some good news had made the change. "Oh, everything is just the same, but I am different," was the reply.—Ram's Horn.

The expense of each individual telephone instrument is larger in a larger circuit than in a smaller one, because the switchboard and other connections increase in geometrical ratio as the number of instruments increase. That is why rentals are higher in a large city than in a small one.

The English sovereign's sons and grandsons, when created peers, are entitled to seats in the house of lords at the left of the throne, but when, by the death of their father, they become only collaterally related to the sovereign, they sit among the dukes.

Growing blackberries and mushrooms, by law, are not private property in England. One may be prosecuted for trespass on land where they grow, but not for theft in taking them.

"Well, no," remarked a bare, brown tree, shivering in its box on New Year's eve, "I'll not turn over a new leaf now, but in the spring I shall."

A duke is styled his grace, the Duke of ——, and addressed as my lord duke or your grace.

HIT THE NAIL ON THE HEAD.

How Ex-Congressman Ranney Rid Himself of a Troublesome Bedfellow.

Ex-Congressman A. A. Ranney of Massachusetts, who is accredited with the leadership of the Boston bar, gave evidence very early in life of the strength of purpose which has characterized his subsequent career.

As a boy it was decreed by his stern old father that he and an elder brother should occupy the same bedroom and share the same bed. The future congressman disliked this arrangement exceedingly, for the substantial reason that his brother possessed a constitutional tendency to kick the person with whom he chanced to be sleeping out of bed. On cold winter nights young Ranney would awaken shivering, to find that his restless bedfellow had acquired in the course of an erratic slumber all the bedclothes and was wrapped up in them like an Indian papoose. The boy bore this infliction uncomplainingly for many weeks. Never a word said he in the family circle of the kicks he was obliged to submit to, or the cold baths of freezing temperature which roused him so often from pleasant dreams.

One night, shortly after 12 strokes had rung from the deep toned bell in the tower of the Town hall, the household was awakened by a loud hammering, which seemed to proceed from an upper room. Father Ranney hurriedly donned his trousers and taking a good, stout club for protection stole up stairs to take the thief unawares. The hammering grew louder as he approached the room occupied by his sons. He crept softly to the door and listened. Bang went the hammer again and yet again, and with each stroke a heavy nail seemed to have been driven further home.

Ranney pere waited no longer, but threw the door wide open. A strange spectacle confronted him. His elder son lay fast asleep and snoring on one side of the bed. On the opposite side the future congressman was kneeling on the floor, busily engaged in nailing the bedclothing to the sideboard of the couch.

"What are you doing there?" roared the irate father.

"Why," replied this extraordinary boy calmly, "I was just fixing these bedclothes so that he couldn't kick 'em off, as he has been doing for the last six weeks."

Then there was a scene, but the boy did not lose his temper, although he complied with his father's command to remove the nails he had driven into the bed. But it is worth noting that shortly afterward he was given a bed to himself.—New York Herald.

The "Cruel Plant."

In one of the papers of the Canadian institute I find two excellent articles upon a species of cannibalistic plant, known to the residents of the tropical portions of America as the "cruel weed," or "strangler." The scientific name of this botanic oddity is Physianthus albens, and it is indigenous only to the western hemisphere. The flowers of this queer plant are provided with five pairs of jaws, which are so arranged as to quickly close upon the proboscis or head of any unsuspecting moth or other insect which may attempt to extract honey from the blossom. To make sure of its prey this cruel flower holds fast as long as the insect struggles, slowly releasing its grasp as soon as the writhings of the dying creature cease.

According to the botanists, it belongs to the milkweed family (tribe or order of asclepiads). The flowers are pure white and very fragrant and much like the tuberose in general appearance. Those who may wish to know more about this curiosity will find a very readable and instructive article on the subject in Henderson's "Handbook of Plants," article "Physianthus."—St. Louis Republic.

Talkativeness and Divorce In Japan.

Mr. Hanniker Heaton has been gathering some very interesting marriage statistics concerning the customs in vogue in different countries, from which one reads with amusement, and perhaps with a certain degree of amazement, that throughout Japan a man may get a divorce if his wife talks too much. Ordinary people may suppose that this harsh law will have the effect of curbing loquacity, but it has not. Japanese ladies are the most talkative of their sex, and divorces are common among them. In Thibet a woman is entitled to three husbands. In Melbourne a man may secure a divorce if his wife gets drunk three times, or if she habitually neglects her household duties.

Pearl Oysters.

It has been found by Saville-Kent that the pearl oyster reaches maturity in a shorter time than was formerly supposed. He thinks that under favorable conditions a period not exceeding three years suffices for the shell to attain to the marketable size of 8 or 9 inches in diameter, and that the heavy shells of five pound or six pound weight per pair may be the product of five years growth.—Public Opinion.

Necessary To Baptism.

"What must precede baptism?" asked the rector when catechising the Sunday school.

THEY DEIFIED THE BEETLE.

How the Egyptians Came to Regard the Despised Insects as Gods.

Primitive observers never suspected anything so commonplace as the presence of eggs in the middle of the ball the beetle has made. That sort of explanation belongs only to the age of science. The Egyptians saw the beetle bury the pellet, and they saw a new beetle emerge from it in due time, and they leaped straight to the not unnatural conclusion that here was a case of spontaneous generation. The pious scarab, they imagined, buried the balls of dirt as they themselves buried their mummied dead, and new scarabs sprang from it under the vivifying rays of the supreme sun god, as the glorified body would spring in the end from the dried and withered dust of the human mummy.

It was as an emblem of the resurrection then that the scarab attained such immense vogue in the Nile valley. Nothing could be more natural than that a mummy making race should see in its proceedings an undoubted argument for the immortality of the soul and a proof of the continued existence of the spirit after death. Everything conspired to produce this impression. The earnest way in which the good beetles devoted their lives to the pious task of rolling their balls of manure to the chosen burying place was a lesson, as it were, to careless humanity to look to the end—a perpetual coleopterous memento mori.

All sorts of strange fables rose up accordingly about the sacred insect. It seems that for 28 days the balls remained under ground, through a whole lunar revolution. During that mystic time the beetles grew within by spontaneous generation. On the twenty-ninth day, which the insect knew as the moment of the conjunction of the sun with the moon, the ball opened of itself and forth sallied in full divinity a new born scarab. Later on, when the cult of Ra, the sun god, became the chief element in the worship of Egypt, eclipsing and absorbing into itself the earlier ancestral worship of Osiris, yet another point of sanctity was discovered in the scarab.

The balls he rolled behind him so assiduously, being round and revivified, were considered as emblematical of the sun's disk, and the beetle himself was almost regarded as an avatar of the solar deity. To such a pitch of dignity may honest industry and sterling earnestness of purpose lead in the end even a despised carrion beetle.—Cornhill Magazine.

Wing Feathers.

Take a goose quill, or a feather of the wing of any bird that may be at hand, and look at it carefully. You will see that these separate filaments of which the vane is composed, technically called barbs, although really distinct from each other and only attached to the common stem at their base, have a curious tendency to cling together, so as to form a continuous structure, and that it takes a slight but distinct amount of force to separate them, and that after they have been pulled or forced apart, if they are brought in contact again by gently stroking the feather in the right direction, or by waving it briskly through the air, they will join again as firmly as before. You will also find that this operation may be repeated an indefinite number of times.

Of all the marvelous mechanical adaptations we meet with in nature, there is nothing more wonderful than that which is seen in every feather of a bird's wing. The object is evidently to produce an expanded surface, light, strong and practically indestructible, one capable of resisting the pressure brought to bear upon it in buffeting the strongest winds without permanently splitting or being torn in tatters.—Good Words.

Chess.

It is no easy task to convince the modern school chess crank that his pet theories and openings were known and played centuries ago, and yet such is the case. The further we probe into ancient history the more modern becomes the style of the games of chess which are unearthed, until it looks as if the old masters were well up in all the wrinkles of the most favorite openings. The Ruy Lopez, invented by a priest of that name, has been played for centuries and continues to be the most popular opening with the chess masters of today. The Ginoco piano has received the attention of modern analysts, and yet we find that the same moves were played centuries ago.—New York Herald.

New York's Wooded Surroundings.

Any height that commands a comprehensive view of New York reveals the fact that beyond the city's boundary of water there is in nearly all directions a horizon edged with woodland. The city stands in the midst of an urban area of perhaps 200 square miles, but many hundred acres of that area are still covered with woodland, and the suburban edges are all within easy reach of some considerable great area.—Exchange.

Singular Creatures.

"And so, Peter, you spell 'women' with an 'a'?" said the teacher, correcting an exercise. "Please, sir," was the reply, "my papa told mamma only yesterday that women were singular beings."—Music and Drama.

H. M. GRANICE - - - - - - - - - - - - EDITOR

THE California State Board of Trade, through its Secretary Will S. Green, has sent a communication to the Board of Supervisors of this county urging an appropriation of $15 per month to enable Sonoma county to make a creditable display of its products in the rooms of the Board which are now thronged daily with Eastern homeseekers. The communication recites among other things that "the holding of the Midwinter Fair offers an opportunity never again to be presented for the exhibition of the recources of each county in the State, Visitors are now coming to the State by the thousands. The registry of the Board shows a daily attendance of about five hundred people, one-half of whom are non-residents of the State.

The purpose of the Board is to maintain a free exhibit of the productions of the State, to distribute literature in the East respecting the State, for the purpose of fostering immigration to the State, and in the future, as it has been in the past, to aid every effort looking to the development of California. It has done a noble work in the past with the support of a few counties. With more support more can be done, and we make this appeal to you for an appropriation of fifteen dollars per month. The law allows us to do this. Such an appropriation entitles your county to a representation on the Board and an exhibition of the products of the county in its rooms. The Secretary is always in attendance to give information about the soil, climate, production, people and resources of each county. The visitor at the Fair is amazed at the extent of the exhibition, but he has no leisure to seek the information he wants. There is no central point where he can interrogate anyone. The State Board meets that want. The rooms are central, and the attendants are there for the express purpose of answering questions.

GENERAL L. C. FRY of the Industrial Army has been arrested and thrown into jail at El Paso, Texas., on a charge of vagrancy. It is said that Fry's Los Angeles regiment is gathering strength as it travels eastward and has plundered some towns on the way. The Mayor of El Paso has issued a proclamation ordering all able-bodied men of that city to serve in preventing the army from entering the city.

THE war in Brazil has not yet ended. A dispatch from Montevido says: "The friends of the Brazilian insurgents in this city have received word from Rio saying that President Peixoto's defeat of the rebels at Rio bay was a fiasco."

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND has nominated Will S. Green to be Surveyor-General of California. Mr. Green is editor of the Colusa, Cal., Sun.

THE HIGHEST AWARD.

Dr. Price's Baking Powder Receives it.

For leavening power, keeping qualities, purity and general excellence the World's Fair jury decided that Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder had no equal. On each of its claims it was awarded a first prize or a diploma. All the baking powders entered for prizes were subjected to a most exhaustive examination, and the jury was the best equipped to make the decision of any ever got together. Their verdict was supported by the testimony of Dr. H. W. Wiley, chief chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington. Dr. Wiley is an expert on food products and the highest authority on such matters in America. This verdict settles a long debated question as to which among the many baking powders is the best.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

"President Cleveland will not veto the Bland bill, neither will he sign it. He will allow it to become a law without his signature." These remarks were addressed to a prominent silver man in Congress by a Democratic Senator who had just come from a conference with Mr. Cleveland at the White House and were not intended for publication. If President Cleveland does not veto the Bland bill it will not indicate that he has changed his mind about silver, but merely that he has for once pushed aside his own will and judgment in deference to the large number of Democrats who supported the bill in the House and Senate and who have assured him that a veto of the bill would cost his party many seats in Congress that they now hold. The silver men who know Mr. Cleveland's antipathy towards any legislation favoring the white metal will not believe the danger of a veto is over until the ten days from its final passage, requisite to make it a law without Presidental signature shall have elapsed. If they could get as big a percentage of the vote in the House as the bill received in the Senate they could safely defy a veto, because they could then pass the bill over it.

There is nothing in site to indicate when the tariff bill will be reported to the Senate, although it is expected that it will be reported next week sometime. It must be confessed, however, that the expectation is based upon nothing more tangible than the belief that their will be no excuse for withholding it longer than that. The Finance Committee has a bad attack of that old Senate complaint, concealment fever, and this week adopted a resolution pledging every member of the committee to secrecy as to what was done at the committee meetings. A witty Senator, not a member of that committee, said of the resolution: "It was not adopted because the committee is doing any thing that it objects to being known, but because it was doing nothing and did not want that known."

Notwithstanding occasional sharp criticisms on and off the floor the House is overwhelmingly in favor of maintaining the Interestate Commerce Commission. Out of 108 members present when representative Morse of Massachusetts moved to strike out of the sundry civil bill the item making an appropriation for the commission only five voted for the motion. During the debate on that motion it was made apparent that in the opinion of some members it was not the law which was to be blamed for decisions that have been made against the commission, but the inability of the commission to employ as able and skillful lawyers to uphold the law as the railroads did to defeat it.

The sugar question is giving the Senators considerable trouble in its various phrases. The Senate started the week by killing Senator Peffer's resolution for investigating the charges against Senators of speculating in stock of the sugar trust, by deciding on a vote of thirty-three to twenty-seven to lay it on the table. That action, which was a surprise to most people and which is not generally regarded as a wise way to refute such charges has been the basis of endless gossip, not all of it of a complimentary nature. The sugar men, who had been instrumental in getting the clause repealing the reciprocity clause of the McKinley law inserted in the tariff bill by the House Ways and Means Committee and also in getting the clause abrogating the commercial treaty with Hawaii, under which sugar from the islands comes in free, put into the same bill by the Senate Committee on Finance, were somewhat taken back when Senator Voorhees announced that the repeal of the reciprocity law would not affect any of the treaties or agreements made under it. It will only prevent the making of new ones. The next thing to disturb the sugar men was the discovery that there was an unexpectedly large number of Senators who will not vote to abrogate the Hawaiian treaty, nor because of any opposition to American sugar interests, but because they are not willing to give up privileges enjoyed by the United States under that treaty. Senator Vest, a member of the Finance Committee, and other Democratic Senators take issue with Senator Voorhees and claim that a repeal of the reciprocity law will abrogate all treaties made under it. The fact that two-thirds of the foreign sugar that comes to this country comes in free under treaties, regardless of the tariff, has apparently just began to be realized by many people. The beet sugar men are talking of testing in the courts the right of Congress to repeal the sugar bounty law, inasmuch as it was enacted for a specified number of years.

The trial of the suit of Miss Madeline Pollard against Representative Breckenridge of Kentucky for breach of promise of marriage, which has now been going on a week, is proving a dangerous rival to Congress, so far as public interest is concerned.

The House Committee on the election of President and Vice-President will probably report favorably a joint resolution for a constitutional amendment for the election of Senators by the people.

THE DUST-HOI MAN.

One of the Many Queer Characters to Be Seen In London Streets.

As it is now morning, writes a London correspondent of the Boston Herald, we shall see some Dickenslike characters. What American fails to find such of interest? Listen! A strange cry bursts on the ear. Presently we make it out. It is "Dust-hoi! Dust-hoi!" Then a man appears, walking beside a huge cart and plodding horse. He is one of the regular parish collectors of dust and cinders. He has his rounds in this particular vestry twice a week. He comes to your side house entrance door, which is also your servant's or tradesman's door, and removes your refuse in big baskets.

The tradition is that you pay him nothing, as you are entitled, being a householder and ratepayer, to have your dust bin cleared at such times as you wish. Ordinarily this is about once in three weeks. You must not empty green vegetable parings in the bin. These must be burned. Like most traditions, it is honored better in the breach than in the observance, for the fact is you pay the "dust-hoi man" twopence gratuity for beer. If he invested his daily takings thus, he would go home fairly inebriated. When Christmas comes, he will perhaps ask for his Christmas "box," which is a few pennies, whatever you like to present.

Why "hoi," I don't know, as the cry is "dust." But once when I inquired the man replied: "Well, I'm blessed if I know. It allus been 'hoi' since ever was, and I come from a whole family o' dust-hois, I do. Me father and me grand'ther was dust-hoi men, they was." The reason for the existence of most customs in England is because "it has always been so."

The dust-hoi man has a grimy, gray appearance and an ash colored complexion, and he wears a smock jacket, hauled over his turned up at the knees trousers. The latter are cotton velvet corduroys mostly. They always seem half worn out. I never recollect to have observed a new pair on one of these men, so I conclude "they allus was."

The "dust-hoi" is a serious person. He never jokes with the scullery maid, who regards him as being quite lower in class than the cook, but much above herself in social rank. I wonder if dustmen usually marry scullery maids. But I am not able to get statistics on this head.

Having collected my dust and pocketed my two nimble pence, "the dust-hoi" moves off to fresh fields, his not unmusical call growing fainter and fainter as he seeks other squares.

Wired Steam Pipes.

The interesting fact is noted in Engineering of the adoption in the Italian navy of the plan of re-enforcing steam pipes with wire, the practice consisting in serving the tubes over with one or more layers of closely laid metal wire, wound on under tension. Up to about eight inches in diameter drawn tubes are used without re-enforcement, while above this diameter the tubes are made out of copper sheets by the usual brazing operation and are then wrapped round with a close spiral of copper or delta metal wire.

This method of re-enforcement is only considered applicable to straight tubes, and accordingly these only are used, gun metal castings being employed at the elbows and bends. The wire is of sufficient section to carry the full steam pressure independently of the strength of the tube, though the latter is made strong enough to stand the usual hydraulic test before the wire is put on. The re enforcement is made up with two or three independent spirals, so that if one wire breaks the tube is still held up to its work by the others. The ends are fixed independent of the flanges.

"Save the Mark."

The ancient use of a cross instead of a signature was universal alike by those who could and by those who could not write. It was a symbol of an oath from its earliest associations. On this account Charles Knight, in his notes on "The Pictorial Shakespeare," explains the expression "God save the mark" (Henry IV) as a form of ejaculation approaching to the form of an oath. Kelly, in his "Comments on Scotch Proverbs," observes that the Scots, when they used to compare person to person, used the expression, "Save the mark." Another explanation of the expression is that in archery when an archer shot well it was the custom to cry out, "God save the mark"—that is, prevent any one coming after to hit the same mark and thereby displace the arrow. Ironically, it was said to a novice whose arrow struck nowhere.—Brooklyn Eagle.

In Cases of Shock.

A person in the state termed "shock" is in a very critical condition. Medical assistance should be procured as soon as possible. The face will be deathly pale, the body covered with cold perspiration, pulse very feeble and the mind bewildered, or there may be complete loss of consciousness. If the patient is dressed, loosen all the clothing about the neck and chest, apply heat to the extremities, to the pit of the stomach, under the arms, and mustard over the heart. Give stimulants freely, and if there is nausea give bits of cracked ice.—New York World.

It must be a good article that will induce a man to go forty miles to get it. Mr. E. R. Swetnam of Fairfax Station, Va., says a party came forty miles to his store for Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and bought a dozen bottles. "The remedy is a great favorite in this vicinity," he says "and has performed some wonderful cures here." It is intended especially for Coughs, Colds, Croup and Whooping Cough. A Card.

To my friends and the public in general who recently nominated me for City Trustee at the coming election, I will say not to cast any votes for me, as I will not serve if elected for reasons best known to myself. The nomination was made contrary to my expressed wishes. Thanking my friends for their sincere effort to see me in office again I trust they will excuse my refusal, as I have already served ten years as a Trustee of the City of Sonoma.

Long Siege of Dangerous Illness

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.:

"Gentlemen:—I have been through a terrible siege of illness, and owe my present health to Hood's Sarsaparilla. First, I was taken sick with measles, and on the eighth day the doctor said I had bronchitis following that complaint. In a short time lung fever developed, and I was in a serious condition for quite a while. When I began to get a little better, my friends thought that if I ever got up I would have

Consumption,

I had such a terrible cough and threw off twice my weight. I continued in a very weak and low condition; my weight falling from 115, before I was taken sick, to 68 pounds. Then in January, 1893, I had an attack of the grip, and was confined to my room ten weeks. After this attack I was still very weak and did not gain health at all until I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I had no appetite for anything, and was sick at my stomach continually and had a bad taste in my mouth. Some friends who were taking Hood's Sarsaparilla begged me to try it. My parents had despaired of anything doing me good, but began to give me the medicine, and before I had taken one bottle there was such that they were glad to have me continue. The second bottle did for me what no medicine had ever done. It gave me strength and brought my general health up to where it was two weeks before I was taken with the measles. I have now finished my third bottle, and feel strong and well. I shall always thank to Hood's Sarsaparilla." E. IRENA HARRIS, Irving, Oregon.

STRICKEN DEAD.

TRUSTWORTHY STATEMENTS.

A recent New York dispatch reads: "James C. H——, a fine looking and apparently healthy man, was observed to stagger while walking on Fifth Avenue this afternoon, and after taking one or two uncertain steps fell to the sidewalk. When picked up he was dead. A physician examined the body and pronounced heart disease the cause of death. A peculiarly sad feature of the case is that Mr. H—— was on his way to Maine, to settle in the home of his boyhood. He had passed the previous ten years in the western mining country, and had amassed a fortune. If YOU have any of the symptoms given in the following testimonials you should lose no time in seeking relief.

From John L. Roberts, Slatington, Pa.: "I have suffered with palpitation, irregular pulse, fainting and smothering spells, pain in shoulders, side, and arms for over forty years. For twelve years have been treated without avail by prominent physicians in my neighborhood and in New York. Growing constantly worse, smothering spells followed one another, so my life was often in danger and I needed constant care. As my son had been cured by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, he sent me three bottles. The first dose gave me instant relief. Before using the last bottle I was completely cured. Although seventy-five years old I feel twenty years younger. I claim my cure to be almost a miracle."

Here is a letter from Mrs John Kolges, of Cleveland, O.: "I had been troubled with my heart and stomach for years, but for sixteen months had been confined to my bed. I had four of the best doctors in the city, but none of them could benefit the weakness of my heart. I also had dropsy and rheumatism. I never took medicine that relieved me at once as Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure does. I am much stronger. My appetite is splendid. I gain strength with every dose. I have gained more in six weeks from your treatment than in sixteen months from all the doctors."

"Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists. It is safe, effective, agreeable, and does cure." Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

The sum of $300 has been raised together with an organ, and with an addition to the sum already subscribed a pretty little church will soon grace the spot donated.

Judgment has been rendered in Judge Hunt's Court, San Francisco, in favor of Fred. Fairbanks and against the San Francisco and North Pacific Railway Company for $500. Fairbanks, whose saloon was burned down at Fulton last June, sued the company for $1,800, alleging that the fire was caused by a spark from an engine belonging to the company.

Mr. Ed. Wegner, one of the nominees for City Trustee, publishes a card in another column in which he states that under no consideration will he accept the office if elected. This is to be regretted, as Mr. Wegner made a most excellent Trustee for the several terms which he served in that capacity. The gentleman does not give his reasons for declining to take his seat if elected, but no doubt he has good and sufficient grounds for his action.

Three days is a very short time in which to cure a bad case of rheumatism, but it can be done if the proper treatment is adopted, as will be seen by the following from Jas. Lambert of New Brunswick, Ill.: "I was badly afflicted with rheumatism in the hips and legs, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It cured me in three days. I am all right to-day and would insist on every one who is afflicted with that terrible disease to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm and get well at once." 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers.

Admitted to Bail.

The alleged assassins of blind Nancy Meagher, who was shot to death near Petaluma a few months ago, have been admitted to bail by Judge Crawford. The following is a text of his decision which was rendered last Saturday:

"State of California, Sonoma county, in the Superior Court. In the matter of the application of Elizabeth Bryan, Mary J. Fowler and John L. Bryan on writ for habeas corpus for bail.

"These persons are charged with murdering Nancy Meagher, and are now held in custody by Sheriff Allen under a commitment issued by N. W. Scudder, a Justice of the Peace, upon a preliminary examination upon said charge.

"I have carefully examined all the evidence taken at the Coroner's inquest and at the preliminary examination, and am of the opinion that it does not make out such a case against these defendants, or either of them, as should deprive them of the right of giving bail.

"It is therefore ordered that they be admitted to bail, each in the sum of $5,000."

The accused were subsequently released on bonds furnished by T. C. Putnam, John Lawler, H. A. Hardin and John L. Canem.

Dynamite Fiends.

Trout fishing in Agua Caliente, Fowler, Hooker and other creeks tributary to Sonoma Creek has been almost completely destroyed the past few years by the use of dynamite cartridges in the hands of unprincipaled fishermen. The parties are well-known to several sportsmen in this valley and it has been decided to set a trap and catch them at their nefarious work. In addition to the fine imposed by the State, one-half of which will be paid to the prosecuting witness, $100 additional has been raised by local sportsmen to bring the culprits to justice. Last season the small streams in the mountains north and west of Sonoma were almost decimated of trout by the use of explosives, and if an example is not made of the culprits trout fishing in those streams will soon be a thing of the past.

Dry North Wind.

A dry north wind has prevailed in this valley the past week, and in consequence the roads are rapidly drying up and becoming in fine condition for traveling. The wind has also enabled many of our farmers to commence plowing and cultivating the low and moist places on their farms. So far little or no damage has been done to crops by the blow. A similar wind prevailing in the San Joaquin or Sacramento valleys for the same period during March would cause a complete failure of the grain crop in those valleys. In Sonoma Valley, however, a failure of crops has never been known owing to these winds which are as rare in this section as they are harmless.

Open Season for Trout.

One week from to-morrow the trout season opens. Already local fishermen are preparing their tackle in anticipation of a good day's fishing on April 1st. Sonoma creek between this city and Glen Ellen will afford fine sport this season. So far this year that stream has not been molested by those would-be sportsmen who resort to lime and powder to secure a mess of trout.

Sad Death.

Mrs. Virginia Dresel, wife of Dr. Gustav Dresel, died at her home in San Francisco on the 16th inst. in childbirth. The deceased, who was a sister-in-law of Carl Dresel of this place, was aged 26 years. The funeral took place in San Francisco last Sunday and was attended by a number of Sonoma people.

The Coming City Election.

Nominations for city officers closed last Monday according to law. The ticket will contain the names of seven candidates for Trustees, four for Marshal, one for Clerk and one for Treasurer. A number of these candidates have declared their unwillingness to serve if elected.

To be Sold at Sheriff's Sale.

The ranch property located near Agua Caliente owned jointly by J. H. Madison, T. D. Morris and J. B. Morris will be sold at Sheriff's sale on Wednesday, April 11th, to satisfy a judgment of $6,095.25 obtained against the owners by Margaret Denahy.

Social Hop.

A social hop will be given next Saturday evening at the Mervyn Hotel, Glen Ellen, by Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, the pleasant host and hostess of that popular resort. A general invitation is extended to Sonoma Valley people to be present.

If you are dull and stupid you are bilious and need a tonic. Take Simmons Liver Regulator.

WANDERED IN A STORM.

Experience of a Young Hunter in the Mountains.

Harry Hardinot, a resident of Yorkville, Mendocino county, says the Santa Rosa Democrat, had an experience last week that will probably result in his becoming deranged. He was hunting in the mountains on Wednesday of last week, and becoming confused, lost his way and wandered over the mountains for three days and two nights in the storm without a bite to eat or shelter.

As will be recalled, the severe cold and snow which prevailed at that time made his suffering most intense. The first night out he succeeded in building a fire and kept watch during the long, weary hours. The next day (Thursday) he started again in his fruitless search for a trail or anything to indicate the way to civilization. The rain drenched him through and through.

At this time, he not returning home, the neighbors were notified and a searching party of thirty-one mountaineers was organized. All the adjacent hills, mountains, gulches and creeks were scoured without the least discovery.

Thursday night snow fell on the mountains to a great depth and the cold was terrible. The unfortunate wanderer was driven before it, his mind almost unbalanced by the hardships he had endured. His travels were through the roughest country, in places never before visited by man. Friday morning found him almost exhausted, yet the spark of life that was left gave him hope and he kept moving. At last he saw a fence and followed it. He was now so exhausted that he was compelled to lie down and rest every rod of the way.

At last he was rewarded in seeing the house of Rodney Lowery on the Rockpile ranch, a sheep range of many thousand acres. Mrs Lowery saw him coming and she ran to his assistance, fearing that he was wounded, as he still clung to his rifle. He could hardly tell his name, he was so bewildered in mind. He had been out in the elements fifty-six hours, and his emaciated condition told too plainly of his keen suffering. Saturday afternoon two of the searching party, William Cooper and Irving Ingram, found him at the isolated home of the shepherd, and the following day he was conveyed to his home near Yorkville, where he is under medical treatment. It is feared that he will never recover his health, and if so his mind will be entirely gone owing to the terrible experience he passed through.

Written for the SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

"FOR HE IS RISEN."

Upon this blessed days of days
Let us all our voices raise,
To sing that wondrous love Divine;
Let us in adoration meet,
And cast ourselves at those dear feet,

That from our sins to set us free,
Trod that sad path to Calvary.
His life for us He did resign,
But e'en in that most dreadful hour,
His Heavenly Father's love and power,

Sustained Him, and from grief and night,
He passed forth unto joy and light;
With snowy lilies, blossoms fair,
His earthly temples we'll adorn,
Upon this grand, this sacred morn.

O, Easter bells, ring loud and clear!
Ring out, ring out, both far and near;
That all may kneel in solemn prayer;
Bowed be in reverence every head,
"For He is risen" from the dead.

Miss Hermena Steiger of Agua Caliente and Mr. John Bayler of Santa Rosa were married in St. Francis' Church on the 10th inst., by Rev. Father Whyte. The wedding was a quiet affair, only a few relatives of the contracting parties being present. After the nuptial knot had been tied a wedding breakfast was partaken of at the residence of the bride's parents.

According to Kate Field the most tragic episode of the war occurred during the siege of Charleston, when the wedding of Governor Pecken's daughter was interrupted by a shell that came crashing into the house from the Federal batteries and exploded in the parlor. When the smoke cleared away the bride lay on the floor, her white robes stained with the blood of a death wound. All the others had escaped unhurt.

If the baby takes the croup suddenly, while you are waiting for water to heat and for the doctor, pour a teaspoonful of coal oil—kerosene—down it's throat. It's a nasty dose, but it is death to the fungus of membranous croup if taken in time. Bathe the throat and chest with it, and then rub with goose grease, lard or something of that nature to keep it from blistering.

The dime social given last Thursday evening by the members of the Congregational Church at the commodious residence of Rev. and Mrs. Chase was in every way a pleasant affair. Upwards of one hundred people were present, who were warmly welcomed by the pastor and his pleasant wife. The time passed too quickly with the playing of games, singing and social converse. At a late hour the guests were ushered into the large dining room where refreshments were served, after which the amusements of the evening were renewed for a short time when all took their departure after having thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Last Saturday evening there was a very pleasant social gathering at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Johannsen on the Napa road. The house was tastefully decorated with acacias, ferns and flowers. A VOICE FROM THE TOMB.

It Spoke to a Dream and Told a Tale of Ghastly Horror.

The Rev. Mr. Partridge was once the vicar of a parish in the suburbs of London. He had the misfortune to lose a favorite son, whose body was interred in a vault in the church. Two nights after the interment Mr. Partridge dreamed that he saw his son, habited in a shroud spotted with blood, the expression of his countenance being that of a person enduring some paroxysm of acute pain.

"Father, father," he cried, "come and defend me! They will not let me rest quiet in my coffin."

The apparition was so vivid that the dreamer awoke, trembling from excitement. He argued with himself that it was the result of the grief he felt on account of his son's death, and after awhile managed to overcome his agitation and go to sleep again. But it seemed to him that he scarcely lost consciousness when the vision reappeared, beseeching more piteously than before that his father would come to his aid, as they were "mangling his body at that instant." The tortured man slept no more that night, and at the break of day repaired to the clerk's house, where the keys of the vault were kept. Here he was informed that the key to the main door had been broken and the clerk's son had gone to the smith's to have a new one made. Impelled by the worst misgivings, the vicar procured a crowbar, by means of which the hinges of the door were wrenched off.

The sight that greeted him caused the father to fall fainting to the floor. His son's coffin had been lifted from the recess and placed on the brick pavement. The lid lay loose on the top. The body, enveloped in its shroud, on which were several spots of blood below the chin, was exposed to view. The broad ribbon had been removed from below the jaw, which hung down with a most ghastly horror of expression, and every tooth in the head had been drawn. The youth while living had possessed a beautiful set of teeth. The clerk's son, who was both a barber and a dentist, had obtained possession of the vault keys for the purpose of extracting the teeth for use in his business.—New York Times.

The Minister's Diary.

The following are extracts from a diary kept by the Rev. Mr. Emerson of the town of Conway in 1799 and 1800:

Jan. 1, 1800—Had much company. In the evening married a couple. Fee, $1.25. Had a cheese given me. Value about $1. Deacon Ware a present of beef, value about 20 cents.

Jan. 4—Attended to study. Bottle rum, 50 cents.

Jan. 23—Married three couple. Fee, $6.25.

Feb. 4—Paid a woman tailor for one day 25 cents.

July 5—Bot. rum at Bardwell's store, 50 cents.

Aug. 12—Two quarts rum Williams' store, $1.50. Paid for killing hog, 17 cents.

Oct. 20—Put in the cellar for winter use 38 barrels of cider. Value, $32.

Dec. 29—Lord's day. Preached from Samuel i, 27, "How are the mighty fallen."—North Adams (Mass.) Democrat.

Pawnbrokers' Methods.

"Have you ever noticed," said De Broke, "that pawnbrokers will never answer the question, 'What can I get on this?' They always make one tell what he wants to borrow, and then no matter how low one places the amount, the broker will always go him $1 or $2 lower. I knew of a fellow in an office who was pretty green for a pawnbroker, but who had learned this first principle.

"I had a beautiful solitaire ring, and I needed just a fiver. So I thought, for fun, I would see if this fellow would actually try to go me one lower on the ring.

"I asked for $6, and as he looked at the ring he smiled sarcastically and said curtly, '$5.' But I was obstinate, and slipping the ring on my finger went out.

"I easily got 10 plunkers on it from another money lender."—Philadelphia Call.

Time and Riches.

"What are you doing now?" asked Willie Wibble's father.

"Killing time," replied the young man languidly.

"It seems to me that you spend a good deal of money at it."

"Perhaps. You see, fathah, it's this way. Time flies, doesn't it?"

"I've heard so."

"And riches have wings?"

"I'm sure of that."

"Well, the only way I know of killing time is to chase it with money."—Washington Star.

Fourteen Nice Little Feet.

The great importance of children being properly shod has been fully recognized by the German emperor and empress, who have been most particular that their children should only wear hygienic boots and shoes, sufficiently wide for the toes to have proper development, and in consequence the six young princes and their sister have perfectly normal feet and will therefore be spared the suffering from corns, bunions and faulty nails to which most of mankind are subject.—Lady's Pictorial.

I have often [illegible]ge from his canvas a [illegible]a lay figure or a lovely object [illegible]en he thought that by doing so the line of his composition would be improved or that greater simplicity would be gained by the sacrifice.

I have heard Mr. Alma-Tadema tell a story of the fate of two unsuccessful pictures of his student days. One of them was returned unsold by the committee of the Brussels exhibition in 1859. The subject, I believe, was of a house on fire, with people rescuing the victims. His fellow students were asked into the studio of the rejected painter and were invited to jump through the canvas, the owner of it leading the way by leaping, head first, through the oily flames. The other story was of a large sized, square picture which came back, hopelessly, again and again, to the easel of its creator, until at last it was cut out of its frame and was given to an old woman to use it as a table cover, and who remarked that it "was much better than those common oilcloth things that always let the water through, for this one of Mr. Tadema's making was a good, thick one, with plenty of paint on it."—Mrs. E. Gosse in Century.

A Description.

"Can you describe the man you saw hanging about the house the day before the robbery?" inquired the detective.

The Perkins Junction storekeeper, whose place of business had been broken into and robbed of a considerable quantity of plug tobacco, canned tomatoes and dried peaches, together with the entire contents of the cash drawer, amounting to $1.56, reflected a moment and then asked, "D'you know Bill Quinn?"

"I don't think I do."

"Lives down in the Wallick neighborhood."

"I don't know him."

The merchant shifted his quid to the other cheek, chewed it thoughtfully awhile and said:

"Know Si Roberts?"

"No."

"Auctioneer. Hangs round Thompson's a good deal."

"Never heard of him. But as to this man you saw loafing about here before the robbery took place—I would like to have you describe him as well as you can."

Again the storekeeper reflected.

"Well," he said at last, "he looks some like Bill Quinn and some like Si Roberts."—Chicago Tribune.

Composition Under Difficulties.

A letter from the Archduke Joseph, the only member of the imperial family who resides permanently in Hungary, which has just been published, gives a pleasant picture of the relations between himself and Moritz Jokai. It incidentally mentions that it was on the suggestion of the great Hungarian author that the archduke published his own work on the gypsy language. While Moritz Jokai was staying at the archduke's country house the latter remarked that his guest was in the habit of constantly jotting down notes on separate slips of paper, whether at home, out walking, talking, watching the dancers, or in the vineyard—in short, everywhere.

This excited the curiosity of his host, who was not a little surprised to hear in reply to his inquiry that all these fragments were part of a novel he was then writing and were sent off direct to the press. Archduke Joseph says that he read the work with special interest, looking attentively for any indications of the manner in which it had been composed, but could not find the slightest trace of discontinuity.—Vienna Cor. London Times.

Unaired Beds.

There is a story told of the eminent Dr. Abernethy, who was as blunt as he was learned. He was called to prescribe for an old lady in failing health, who prided herself upon being and who looked the very pink of neatness. Her dress was spotless and her cap immaculate, and her friends spoke of her as that "sweet old lady." After much questioning, which was almost impertinent, and a careful diagnosis of the case the doctor said gruffly, "Madam, you are ill because of filth." Of course she was horrified, but he went on, "Your bed is not properly aired, and in consequence you are being slowly poisoned to death."—New York Examiner.

A Royal Compliment.

Mgr. de Nosmund, archbishop of Toulouse, when preaching one day in the private chapel of Louis XIV lost the thread of his discourse, so that he had to remain silent for some time. The king came to his lordship's relief with this graceful remark:

"I am very glad, my lord, that you are giving me a little time to digest all the good things contained in the former part of your sermon."—Frusta.

An Insinuation.

Two persons are quarreling. "Look here," said one of them, brandishing his cane, "you don't seem to be aware that I belong to the Society For the Protection of Animals."

"Excuse me, as a protector or as one of the protected?"—Mondo Umoristico.

"The people of this vicinity insist on having Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and do not want any other," says John V. Bishop of Portland Mills, Indiana. That is right. They know it to be superior to any other for colds, and as a preventive and cure for croup, and why should they not insist on having it. 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers.

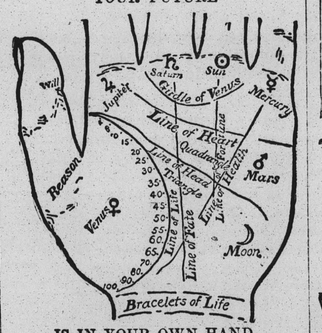
YOUR FUTURE



IS IN YOUR OWN HAND.

Palmistry assumes to tell what the lines in your hand indicate. It will amuse you, if nothing more. The above diagram almost explains itself. The length of the LINE OF LIFE indicates probable age to which you will live. Each BRACELET gives you thirty years. Well-marked LINE OF HEAD denotes brain power; clear LINE OF FORTUNE, fame or riches. Both combined mean success in life; but you must keep up with modern ideas to win it. You will find plenty of these in Demorest's Family Magazine, so attractively presented that every member of the family is entertained. It is a dozen magazines in one. A CLEAR LINE OF HEART bespeaks tenderness; a straight LINE OF FATE, peaceful life; the reverse if crooked. A well-defined LINE OF HEALTH spares you doctors' bills; so will the health hints in Demorest's. No other magazine publishes so many stories to interest the home circle. You will be subject to extremes of high spirits or despondency if you have the GIRDLE OF VENUS well marked; keep up your spirits by having Demorest's Magazine to read. By subscribing to it for 1894 you will receive a gallery of exquisite works of art of great value, besides the superb premium picture, 17x22 inches, "I'm a Daisy!" which is almost a real baby, and equal to the original oil painting which cost $300; and you will have a magazine that cannot be equaled by any in the world for its beautiful illustrations and subject matter, that will keep you posted on all the topics of the day, and all the fads, and different items of interest about the household, besides furnishing interesting reading matter, both grave and gay, for the whole family; and while Demorest's is not a fashion magazine, its fashion pages are perfect, and you get with it, free of cost, all the patterns you wish to use during the year, and in any size you choose. Send in your subscription at once, only $2.00, and you will really get over $25.00 in value. Address the publisher, W. Jennings Demorest, 15 East 14th St., New York. If you are unacquainted with the Magazine, send for a specimen copy. A large QUADRANGLE means honesty; a large TRIANGLE, generosity; long FIRST DIVISION OF THUMB, strong will; LONG SECOND DIVISION, reasoning faculty. The MOUNT OF JUPITER betokens ambition; that of SATURN, prudence; the SUN, love of splendor; MARS, courage; MOON, imagination; VENUS, love of pleasure; and MERCURY, intelligence. Take our advice as above and you will be sure to possess the last and most valuable quality.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

STAR, LANE CO., OREGON, Feb. 8th, 1892.

DR. B. J. KENDALL CO.,

Dear Sirs:—I have used your KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE for the last twelve years never being without it but a few weeks in that time and I have made several wonderful cures with it. I cured a CURB of long standing. Then I had a four year old colt badly SWEENIED; I tried every thing without any benefit, so I tried your Liniment, and in a few weeks he was well and his shoulder filled up all right, and the other, a four year old that had a Thoroughpin and Blood Spavin on the same joint, and to-day no one can tell which leg it was on. These statements can be proven, if necessary; the four year olds are now seven and can be seen any day at Cottage Grove, Or. S. Z. PAXTON.
